Subject :- Nominations for Death-Cum Retirement Gratuity/
Family Pension/Provident Fund Deposits of State Government Officials.

Sir,

It is noticed that there is considerable delay on the part of the officers in filing the nominations with the Accountant General/Head of Departments with the result that sometimes when officers die without filing any nominations, there is invariable difficulty and considerable delay in the final payment of pensionary benefits and Provident Fund Accounts to their family/dependent relatives. Thus, in their hour of need, the family of the deceased Government servant is deprived of timely payment of Government dues to the official.

2. Under the orders in force, nomination for Death Cum Retirement Gratuity of an Officer, who has been confirmed in Gazetted post is required to be kept with the Audit Officer, for safe custody. Also, an Officer (confirmed or not as Gazetted Officer) who has opted to retain the existing family pension benefits is required to forward nomination for family pension to the Audit Officer. If, however, the Officer is governed by the Family Pension Scheme of 1964, only the details of the members of his family and their relationship to the Officer are required to be communicated to the Audit Officer.

3. Similarly, every subscriber contributing to the Provident Fund is required to file a nomination conferring upon one or more members of his family or in case there is no family, some other person/s in accordance with the rules of the Fund, a right to receive the amount lying in the Provident Fund Account of the subscriber in the event of his/her premature death. To obviate the difficulties in the final payment of Provident Fund money in such cases, it is necessary that each and every Provident Fund subscriber should file a nomination. Incidentally it may be pointed out that the nomination filed by a subscriber having no family becomes invalid automatically the moment he/she acquires a family and so he/she has to file a revised nomination after his/her marriage.

4. It is requested that the contents of this letter may please be brought to the notice of all State Government Officials working under your administrative control, requesting them to forward the nominations to their Audit Officers/file them with the Head of Department without delay. It may be mentioned in this connection that it is in the interest of the
